Injured in the Collapse of Ford's Theat tre at Washington Last Friday. Mr. James S. Bussell, a former well known student of Mt. Union College and member of the A. T. O. fraternity was one of the unfortunate victims of the Ford's theatre catastrophe at Washington last Friday. He was on the third floor when the crash came, and fell a distance of forty feet among beams, timbers and debris of every description, His legs were debris of every description. His legs were pinioned by the heavy timbers falling upon them, bruising and crushing them in a fearful manner, while the upper portion of his body hung pendant over a huge beam. From this critical situation he at last succeeded in extricating himself, and managed to crawl across the street into a store. He gave the people there instructions where to take him to his boarding place, and it is quite probable that he is a recolute sort of a man, and managed to get away himself instead of being taken to a hospital. His name did not appear among the injured.

WITH A CLUB.

A Big Boy Knocks Out the Eye of a Com-

A vicious stroke from a club will probaably cost little Samuel Hagen of No. 94 Washington avenue, the loss of his left eye. Hagen and an older boy named John Gross were seated in a box car along the C. C. & S, railway at noon when a little controversy arose between the boys. Hagen alleges that with only a slight provocation Gross picked up a club and struck him in the face. The flesh above and below the eye was cut open and the eyeball laid bare, and two teeth were knocked out of the boy's mouth. Dr. R. A. Bischele examined the boy's injuries. It is probable that if inflammation sets in Hagen may lose the sight of his left eye,

Satisfaction Demanded

The case entitled John E. Beck vs the Connotton Valley railway company is on trial in Judge McCarty's court today. It is charged by the plaintiff that the railway spoiled a valuable piece of property near Navarre by running their track through it and that they got the owner to sign a paper giving right of way when he was an imbecile and not qualified to do business. Therefore satisfaction is demanded
